WILLIAM E. DORON, VETERAN BOATMAN, DIES AT HOME HERE

Deceased Was Known To Thousands Throughout Section

WAS BORN HERE IN 1852

Operated Ferryboat Between Bristol and Burlington For Many Years

Bristol's veteran boatman, William E. Doron, died early today at his home, 333 Cedar street. Mr. Doron was 78 years of age.

Mr. Doron undoubtedly was one of the best known residents of this section and his acquaintances were scattered throughout many states. He came into contact with thousands of people during his lifetime as owner of the ferryboat, William E. Doron, which for years plied between Bristol and Burlington. After about 63 years of almost continuous duty on and about river craft, Mr. Doron ceased to operate the ferry on February 24, 1930. Up until that time the ferry had been his chief hobby and interest in life.

Mr. Doron suffered a slight stroke about a year ago and since that time had not enjoyed his usual health.

The deceased was a familiar figure to all upon the streets of Bristol and he operated the ferryboat which for years had been in the Doron family and which was operated some decades ago by the father of the deceased.

Born here on May 22, 1852, in a house on Cedar street, William E. Doron was educated at private schools in this section. His first instruction was gained at various private schools in Bristol and Andalusia. When in his early teens the young man commenced studying at the Polytechnic College, then located at 17th and Market streets, Philadelphia, from which he was graduated a few years later as a civil engineer.

A few years after reaching his majority, Mr. Doron married Miss Louise P. Conklin, who resided in Andalusia. Two children were born to the couple, a son and a daughter. The daughter, Mrs. Price Patton, resides in Philadelphia. The son died a number of years ago.

The 61 years' experience upon and about river craft enabled Mr. Doron to become familiar with practically every phase of the work. During his young manhood he owned at various times four or five sail boats and five motor boats.

On the occasion of his recent birthday celebration Mr. Doron was asked: "What is your hobby?" The answer was just what was expected, and it came quickly: "I don't have any particular hobby—I just like to work." This fact is readily attested to by (Continued on Page 4)

How The Central Committee Functions.

THE basic plan along which it is proposed that the Central Charity Committee should function is a good one and with the proper co-operation on the part of the affiliated individuals and organizations, absolutely prevents any duplication of effort in the dispensation of charity.

There is a Central Committee with Thomas Scott as secretary-treasurer. Now the idea is for any individual or organization dispensing charity in Bristol to first consult with Mr. Scott and inform him of the case which is to be assisted. The names of the cases are kept strictly confidential by Mr. Scott and others who are informed of them.

When an individual or organization reports to the Central Committee a case to be assisted, a check-up is made by Mr. Scott and his co-workers to ascertain whether or not this particular case has been reported as receiving aid from any other source. If so, the duplication is prevented and the money which might have been spent unnecessarily on the one case is spent elsewhere where it is needed more. Thus two cases are given needed relief instead of one receiving an unwarranted amount of aid.

It is, of course, essential that co-operation be given the Central Committee, if the plan is to work 100 per cent.

The Central Committee cannot compel organizations or individuals to report the cases where they propose to give aid, but if the reporting is voluntarily done, charity will be dispensed in Bristol in a systematic manner and in a way which will be conducive to aid rather than pauperize those who find themselves in want, during an emergency period of misfortune.

The Central Committee, where it is possible, finds employment for those able to work, and temporary aid is given until such time as those of earning ability are able to support themselves and their dependents.

The Central Committee is making an appeal for voluntary contributions to the amount of $2,000 with which it will be enabled to give aid and assistance to those in need.

Contributions should be sent to Thomas Scott, Treasurer, Farmers National Bank of Bucks County, Bristol.

"Christians, with the Kingdom's extension dependent upon them, are faced with multiplied tasks but there is no desire. The one important reason why there are so many unemployed Christians is that there has been no adequate stimulus. What are the stimuli that will rouse these slumbering ones to action?"

Evening worship, 7:45 p. m., "Hearing Ears." "It has been said, 'God has given us two ears and one tongue that we may hear twice before we speak once.' Here is good wisdom in a small package. MOST DISASTROUS FIRE IN 25 YEARS VISITS THE COUNTY SEAT; WATER SUPPLY TAXED TO CAPACITY BY SERIOUS BLAZE IN OLD RESIDENTIAL SECTION

Conflagration for Time Threatens Complete Section of Town ---of Undetermined Origin, Blaze Starts in the Boiler Room --- Dense Smoke Covers the Borough --- 65 People Thrown Out of Work Due to Blaze.

Fire, so serious that the Borough water supply was taxed to the limit, swept an old residential section of Doylestown Borough this morning when fire broke out in the Cold Spring Worsted Mill and totally destroyed the plant with the exception of the dye house. This was the largest industrial plant in the town, manufacturing cloth for men's clothing. The loss is estimated at upwards of $250,000, and was the most disastrous fire in Doylestown in 25 years.

For a time the fire threatened the complete section of the town, which is the oldest residential section, being known as "Germany."

The mill was one of the most progressive in the community having been in operation for 25 years and never closing down or even losing a day. Sixty-five people will be thrown out of work, which will be a disastrous blow to the community, the employees of the mill all being men with families, and the plant will probably not be rebuilt for seven or eight months.

HAMILTON DEFEATS BRISTOL HIGH

By Leon Schiffer

Leading from the opening tap-off, and consistently maintaining their lead throughout the game the Hamilton High basketball team succeeded in defeating the Bristol High quintet in their first home game of the season by the score of 21-10.

The end of the first half found the score 11-8, with Hamilton leading.

For the local squad Galzerano was the highest scorer, having four points to his credit, while for Hamilton Vine and Bonacci were the leading scorers of the game with 10 and 6 points, respectively, to their credit.

Alta, Leighton, and Green played a brilliant brand of basketball for the Cardinal and Gray, being always on the alert and constantly assisting Galzerano in his shots, besides respectively garnering two points by themselves.

Hamilton tasted "first blood" when Filton, assisted by Vine, succeeded in sinking the first field goal of the game. A few seconds afterwards, Alta had the honor of sinking the Cardinal and Gray's first field goal of the evening, when Green, receiving the ball from Tulio, one of the quintet's most reliable members, passed to Galzerano, who in turn passed to Alta. The remainder of the half was a constant duel between both teams with Hamilton never having the lead by a large majority. However, the latter part of the second period was a different story. With Vine, Bonacci and Filton acting as chief scorers Hamilton's lead increased steadily until the final whistle of the game found the Orange and Black leading the Bristol quintet by the score of 21-10.

CHARLES DOAN DIES, AGED 92, AT TULLYTOWN

Deceased Nongegenarian Was Veteran of the Civil War

ILL ABOUT ONE WEEK

TULLYTOWN, Dec. 13.—A Civil War veteran, a nongegenarian, died here yesterday afternoon. The deceased is Charles Doan, Main street.

This one who years ago served his country during its great civil conflict was a well-known personage in the town, having passed the greater portion of his lifetime within its confines. He was in his 92nd year.

During his early life Mr. Doan tilled the soil, and much enjoyed his pursuit of farming.

The deceased was the husband of the late Lavinia Doan, and is survived by five sons. He had for the past several years made his home with his son, John.

Although unable to get about without difficulty, Mr. Doan enjoyed passing the time of day with those who made their way past his abode. During the warm weather of the summer months he would rest upon the front porch of the home, and there converse with residents of the borough.

The late Mr. Doan had been ill for about the past week.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at the late residence of the deceased, at two p. m., the officiating clergyman being Rev. Francis J. S. Morrow, a former pastor of the Tullytown M. E. Church. Burial will be made in Tullytown Cemetery. Friends are invited to call Sunday evening.

Incendiary Blamed For Blaze on Hulmeville Road

HULMEVILLE, Dec. 13.—An incendiary is believed to have started a fire in the dwelling property of John Myers, Hulmeville road, Bensalem Township, one mile from this borough, last night, at 8 o'clock.

The loss, it is believed, will amount to only $50 or $75, owing to the fact the blaze did not gain much headway. William Penn Fire Company was sent to the scene.

The dwelling house is a separate building at the rear of a small store conducted by Mr. Myers. None of the family was in the house at the time, and attention of Walter Kolaski, a passerby, was attracted to the blaze. When the place was entered it was found that bed clothing and chairs, etc., had been piled in a heap in one of the rooms, and evidently set fire to.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

(With "MERRY")

MERRY-YULETIDE

One Can't Have Too Many

When silk hosiery happens to be the subject among the girls, it is a common thing to hear: "One can't have too many pairs." And how true this is! I wouldn't mind in the least if there happen to be a dozen pair for me this Christmas. And so it was with the thought of something useful in mind for the girls of the club that I made my way to Frank Green's, 308 Mill street. And the shades—why Mr. Green had silk hosiery in all the wanted shades, and such nice quality too, both in service weight, service sheer and chiffon. And here's another tip, too, silk hosiery is more reasonable now than it has ever been. It makes the budget stretch further.

This Costume Jewelry

For the lover of finery there is nothing nicer than costume jewelry, especially the sets of a few well-chosen pieces. One of my purchases yesterday was made at F. E. Baylies', 307 Mill street, and what do you suppose it consisted of? A necklace, a pair of earrings, and a bracelet. The four pieces are finished in white gold, and the attractive filigree work is enhanced with settings of pieces of rose quartz. Rose quartz is proving quite popular now, and is especially good looking. Mr. Baylies had piece after piece of finery to show me in the jewelry line, but I finally returned to my first choice, and walked home with the set that first attracted my attention.

Mr. Adler Helps

Adler, at 414 Mill street, is Jay's choice in the tailoring line, and naturally when I thought of Jay's gift, I decided I would look at Adler's offerings, and see what small remembrance I could find there for the young man. My selection ended with the purchase of a silk scarf, in a light shade of gray. Trimming is in blue cross-bar border. While Mr. Adler was wrapping the package I left my eye glance over the aggregation of ties; and I honestly believe every young man in Bristol would be able to find a tie to suit his taste and needs at that store.

To Please A Smoker

Jerry is an inveterate smoker, but he is mighty particular as to the brand. Being so choicy in this matter, I thought the best policy to pursue when buying a box of cigars for that chap, was to see Harry Straus, at his Mill street place of business, and get him to help in the matter. I had forgotten just what kind is Jerry's favorite, but as soon as I mentioned his name Mr. Straus was able to tell me what cigars he likes best. So with this fine source of help I purchased a large box of Jerry's brand, and mentally made note of the fact that my shopping is just about completed.

WEATHERING THE STORM

Colossal indeed is the scale on which modern business is conducting its affairs, with New York as its center and the remainder of the country open-mouthed and dazzled.

Such old-time operations as the formation of the United States Steel Corporation, which caused the nation to gasp at the time and set a record that stood for many years, are now commonplaces of the business day in Wall Street.

Some exceedingly important combinations have been effected in recent years and some alliances which, while not strictly mergers, have brought together huge associated interests through interlocking stock ownership. In addition to the mergers and amalgamations some remarkable expansions have marked the last three years.

Amalgamation and consolidation are the slogans of the business world today. The effect of recent mergers has been cumulative, one leading on to another in its own or an allied field, so that the impetus already given the movement may be expected to produce new and startling records next year.

There are economists who believe that this trend has saved the United States from an industrial panic this year, pointing out that the large corporations and combines have best weathered the storm of business depression. Neither has the rising tide of bank failures engulfed the institutions involved in recent colossal mergers.

INVENTING THINGS

America's traditional inventive genius set new records during the last fiscal year by giving the United States patent office more work and more revenue than ever before in its long and useful history.

In those 12 months the office received 91,000 applications for patents, granted 50,000 patents and collected $4,000,000 in revenue. It continued its record run of record-breaking years by beating the 1929 record by 4,000 applications.

It is in keeping with the development of the machine age that this bureau should continue operating under high pressure. And it is reassuring to learn that American initiative is not dead, that our inventive genius is sowing the seeds of further industrial expansion and that the human appetite for the new and useful is not to go unappeased.

By far the great majority of inventions upon which patents are granted are commercial duds—the proportion of inventions who have struck it rich being about as large as that of successful prospectors and speculators. But their total contribution to the welfare and happiness of humanity has paid handsome dividends on the energy and time expended.

Opportunities for invention are greater today than ever before.

Ancient saying: "Let me see something cheaper."

Nature is kind. City dwellers lose the sense of smell.

An optimist is a fellow who, when unemployed, decides he needs a rest.

Among the inscrutables is why to draw a gate means success and to get the gate means failure.

Results of the bazaar, the Dutch Mart, were gratifying. Nearly $700 will be realized, which will be used to reduce the current indebtedness of the church.

The every-member canvass is being conducted and the results are very encouraging. The rector, Rev. George E. If the canvassers have not yet called you will be visited at an early date," states the rector.

The Holidays and Your Transportation Service

Everybody is thinking about Christmas gifts. Everybody is feeling the Christmas spirit—the spirit of good will. This is a time of year to be of good cheer, to be full of helpfulness.

Why not let your Bus and Trolley service help you in your Christmas shopping?

Why run the risks of driving your own car along the crowded highways, and suffer the inconvenience of looking for parking space in the busy streets, when it can be avoided by using the Buses and Trolleys?

If you must go to Philadelphia, the most convenient and safest way to go is by our Buses and Trolleys to Torresdale, where you get fast trolley service to the big city.

If you must go to Trenton, our Buses take you right to the terminal at the Stacy-Trent, in the heart of the business district.

Wise shoppers will avoid the nerve strain and the risks attendant on driving their own cars on shopping trips.

Our Buses and Trolleys are safe, convenient, and are manned by polite and friendly operators. We are constantly endeavoring to improve the service, and are grateful to the public for its co-operation.

We try to maintain the Holiday Spirit throughout the year by rendering those little favors and courtesies that make our service the Friendly Service.

Real Estate Board To Advertise County

The residents of Bucks county with what they have in their own county and about which very little is known by many Bucks countians.

It is planned to make known the charms, commercial, historic and other outstanding advantages of the county through an advertising and publicity campaign to be carried on in the local newspapers of the county for fifty-two weeks. Already a number of newspapers of the county have consented to co-operate 100 per cent with the committee that is headed by Thomas B. Stockham, of Morrisville.

"With Bucks county's own people better acquainted with Bucks county, it will be much easier to launch the national advertising campaign that will get started a year from now," explained J. Carroll Molloy, of Doylestown, president of the board.

The survey of the county is being completed at the present time and with the completion of the visit that is being made now by the committee to all newspaper offices in the county preparatory to releasing the campaign propaganda, it is hoped the "opening gun" will be fired in a short time.

Three new directors elected were: William K. George, of Quakertown; William H. Molloy, of Ivyland, and William A. Rossiter, of Langhorne.

The speaker was Oscar O. Bean, of this place, who presented his very interesting moving picture story on "Picturesque and Historic Bucks County."

The next meeting of the board will be held on January 14th at the Doylestown Inn.
